

AIR INDIA: WHERE CRUELTY FLIES

If you fly Air India, you should know that terrified cats, dogs, primates, rats and other animals could be just beneath your feet in the cargo hold, heading for a frightening fate in a laboratory.

PETA

AIR INDIA: WHERE CRUELTY FLIES

If you fly Air India, you should know that terrified cats, dogs, primates, rats and other animals could be just beneath your feet in the cargo hold, heading for a frightening fate in a laboratory.

PETA

AIR INDIA: WHERE CRUELTY FLIES

If you fly Air India, you should know that terrified cats, dogs, primates, rats and other animals could be just beneath your feet in the cargo hold, heading for a frightening fate in a laboratory.

PETA

THE ULTIMATE BETRAYAL

After discussions with PETA convinced Air India to implement a company-wide ban on shipping animals to laboratories, the airline bowed to pressure from greedy, fear-mongering animal experimenters and decided once again to transport animals to laboratories and a life of pain and misery.

BURNED, BLINDED AND POISONED

After animals are forced to endure long and gruelling trips in the cargo holds of planes, they are transported by truck to laboratories, where they are routinely mutilated, poisoned, deprived of food and water, burned, blinded, infected with painful and deadly diseases or psychologically tormented. In India, young dogs are commonly poisoned to death in toxicity tests after being force-fed chemicals for months.

A TARNISHED REPUTATION

Nearly every leading international airline and cargo carrier already refuses to ship animals to laboratories, including Jet Airways, FedEx, UPS, Cathay Pacific Airways and EVA Airways.

PLEASE HELP!

Ask the chair of Air India to reinstate the company's ban on transporting animals to laboratories and to ensure that the ban is strictly enforced. Let him know that you will not fly Air India as long as it supports cruelty to animals:

Mr Rohit Nandan
Chair and Managing Director of Air India
rohit.nandan@airindia.in

THE ULTIMATE BETRAYAL

After discussions with PETA convinced Air India to implement a company-wide ban on shipping animals to laboratories, the airline bowed to pressure from greedy, fear-mongering animal experimenters and decided once again to transport animals to laboratories and a life of pain and misery.

BURNED, BLINDED AND POISONED

After animals are forced to endure long and gruelling trips in the cargo holds of planes, they are transported by truck to laboratories, where they are routinely mutilated, poisoned, deprived of food and water, burned, blinded, infected with painful and deadly diseases or psychologically tormented. In India, young dogs are commonly poisoned to death in toxicity tests after being force-fed chemicals for months.

A TARNISHED REPUTATION

Nearly every leading international airline and cargo carrier already refuses to ship animals to laboratories, including Jet Airways, FedEx, UPS, Cathay Pacific Airways and EVA Airways.

PLEASE HELP!

Ask the chair of Air India to reinstate the company's ban on transporting animals to laboratories and to ensure that the ban is strictly enforced. Let him know that you will not fly Air India as long as it supports cruelty to animals:

Mr Rohit Nandan
Chair and Managing Director of Air India
rohit.nandan@airindia.in

THE ULTIMATE BETRAYAL

After discussions with PETA convinced Air India to implement a company-wide ban on shipping animals to laboratories, the airline bowed to pressure from greedy, fear-mongering animal experimenters and decided once again to transport animals to laboratories and a life of pain and misery.

BURNED, BLINDED AND POISONED

After animals are forced to endure long and gruelling trips in the cargo holds of planes, they are transported by truck to laboratories, where they are routinely mutilated, poisoned, deprived of food and water, burned, blinded, infected with painful and deadly diseases or psychologically tormented. In India, young dogs are commonly poisoned to death in toxicity tests after being force-fed chemicals for months.

A TARNISHED REPUTATION

Nearly every leading international airline and cargo carrier already refuses to ship animals to laboratories, including Jet Airways, FedEx, UPS, Cathay Pacific Airways and EVA Airways.

PLEASE HELP!

Ask the chair of Air India to reinstate the company's ban on transporting animals to laboratories and to ensure that the ban is strictly enforced. Let him know that you will not fly Air India as long as it supports cruelty to animals:

Mr Rohit Nandan
Chair and Managing Director of Air India
rohit.nandan@airindia.in

PETA India
PO Box 28260, Juhu, Mumbai 400 049
+91 22-40727382 • PETAIndia.com

PETA India
PO Box 28260, Juhu, Mumbai 400 049
+91 22-40727382 • PETAIndia.com

PETA India
PO Box 28260, Juhu, Mumbai 400 049
+91 22-40727382 • PETAIndia.com