JALANDHAR, OCTOBER 31
On World Vegan Day, activists of the People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA) dressed as a cow, a chicken and a pig to urge Jalandhar residents to go vegan.

Accompanied by members of PAHAL and Lovely Professional University activists holding placards reading - "Love Us, Don't Eat Us: Happy World Vegan Day", the PETA volunteers shared the message to citizens urging them to go vegan and not to consume dairy or other animal-derived products.

Holding this demonstra-

outside the Red Cross Market Complex, near Jyoti Chowk today PETA members said "Animals may not look like us, but they have the same ability to feel joy, love, pain and suffering."

PETA India's Grishma Myatra, said, "Each of us has the chance to help stop violence, safeguard our health and protect the environment simply by choosing a delicious vegan meal every time we sit down to eat."

Chickens, cows and other animals on factory farms are treated like meat and milk machines and are denied everything that is natural and impor-finied to crowded, filthy cages and other enclosures. During slaughter many have their throats cut while they're still conscious. Pigs are often stabbed in the heart as they scream in pain.

In addition, the consumption of meat, eggs and dairy products has been conclusively linked to heart disease, strokes, diabetes, cancer and obesity. Moreover, raising animals for food is a leading cause of water pollution and land degradation, and a recent United Nations report concluded that a global shift towards a vegan diet is necessary to combat the worst effects of
